BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Victoria “Vicki” Thayer Starr (1940- 2013) lived part of her life at her family’s property at Weir River Farm in Hingham, Massachusetts. She was the daughter of Polly Thayer Starr (1905-2006) and Donald Carter Starr (1901-1992). The property was assembled in the 1920s by Polly Thayer Starr’s parents Ezra Ripley Thayer and Ethel Rudolph Clark Thayer who built a summer home on the property in 1929. Polly Thayer Starr inherited the property in 1960 and in 1999 she donated the property to The Trustees of Reservations.

Victoria Starr attended the Woodward and Winsor schools in Boston and graduated from the Westtown School, Westtown, PA. She graduated from Bryn Mawr College and received her Master’s of Arts in Teaching (MAT) from Yale University. She taught Latin at Moorestown Friend’s School in Moorestown, New Jersey from 1962 to 1970, spending her summers in Italy where she followed the excavations at Cosa, in central Italy, and other archaeological excavations. In 1970 she moved to Rome where she purchased an apartment and taught English at St. Stephen's School from 1974 to 1976. An avid traveler, she visited at least 28 countries during her time in Rome including, Kenya, Libya, and Lebanon.

In 1977, she purchased a 14th-16th-Century stone house in Chinon, France and began to restore its gardens and frescos, receiving official municipal recognition. In 2001, she returned to Weir River Farm and converted a carriage barn to a living space.

As an artist, she studied stone carving with Peter Rockwell and created a photography darkroom at Weir River Farm. She died on 25 March 2013.

Her father, Donald Carter Starr, was born 29 January 1901 in Cambridge, Massachusetts to Edwin Carter Starr (1867-1915) and Alice Wareing (1877-1950). He grew up in Winchester, Massachusetts and graduated from Phillips Academy (1918), Harvard College (1922), and Harvard Law School (1925). He worked as a Boston-area wills and estates attorney and served as Assistant Attorney General for Massachusetts. He sailed around the world between 1932 and 1934 on the schooner Pilgrim. Donald and Polly Thayer Starr married on 13 December 1933 in Genoa, Italy. In the 1950s he took a leading role in converting land along the Charles River into a series of public parks. He died 10 March 1992.

Her mother, Polly Thayer Starr, was born Ethel Randolph Starr to Ezra Ripley Thayer (1866-1915), a dean at Harvard Law School, and Ethel Randolph Clark Thayer (1870-1953) on 8 November 1905. She attended the Winsor School in Boston and transferred to the Westover School in Middlebury, Connecticut. She began studying drawing a young age with Beatrice Van Ness (1888-1981). In 1923, she entered the School of the Museum of Fine Arts and in 1929, and was awarded the National Academy of Design's Julius Hallgarten Prize. Her first solo exhibition was at Doll & Richards in Boston on December 31, 1930. Her paintings are in the collections of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston; the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia; the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University; and the New Britain Museum of American Art. In 1961 she legally changed her name to Polly Thayer Starr. In 2001 she was the only living artist included in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts exhibition, "A Studio of Her Own"; a banner of her portrait of May Sarton hung over the entrance to the Museum. She died 10 March 1992 in Boston, Massachusetts

Polly Thayer Starr was the 2nd great-grandchild of Reverend Ezra Ripley (1751-1841), step-grandfather of transcendentalist author Ralph Waldo Emerson (25 May 1803 – 27 April 1882). Ezra Ripley became the pastor of the First Parish in Concord, Massachusetts. In November 1778, he boarded in one of the attic chambers at the house now known as The Old Manse in Concord. On 16 November 1780, Ripley married Phebe Bliss Emerson (1741-1825), the widow of William Emerson (1743-1776). One of their children, Reverend Samuel Ripley (11 March 1783-24 November 1847), was the minister at First Parish in Waltham, Massachusetts. He married Sarah Alden Bradford (31 July 1793-26 July 1867), daughter of Gamaliel Bradford and Edith Hickling on 15 September 1818.

One of their children, Sophia Bradford Ripley (July 1833-1919), married legal scholar James Bradley Thayer (15 January 1831-14 February 1902) on 24 April 1861. Their child Ezra Ripley Thayer (1866-1915) married Ethel Randolph Clark (1870- 1953) on 23 June 1898 in Connecticut. The couple had three children including Ethel Randolph Thayer (1905- 2006) who later changed her name to Polly Thayer Starr; her daughter Victoria Thayer Starr (1940- 2013) is the focus of this collection.

In 1939 The Trustees purchased The Old Manse. Polly Thayer Starr donated Weir River Farm to The Trustees in 1999.
